TAUB-RAPHAEL.

Last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Taub on Main street occurred the marriage of their daughter, Olga, to Mr. Samuel G. Raphael, Dr. Barnstein officiating.

The wedding was one which came as the culmination of a series of pretty hospitalities planned for the young bride, who is greatly admired and loved, and, uniting as it did members of two representative families of Houston, was attended with affectionate interest of countless friends.

To the rear of the stair Thayer's orchestra was seated for the wedding music, and for the music which rose above the merry chatter of congratulation and good wishes during the reception hours.

The handsome electrolitters were unmarred by decoration save in the drawing room, where the ceremony occurred, and here a graceful adornment of white tulle was noted. In one corner of this apartment a simulated altar marked the place where the marriage vows were taken, a large onyx and gold table holding the wine filled receptacle used in the ceremony, white to either side stood marble pedestals, each accommodating an immense crystal vase, tied with tulle and filled with Easter lilies. The crystal pendants of the handsome electrolitter gleamed as the light fell upon them, the soft filmy tulle embellishment accentuating the bridal theme and adding to the general happy decorative results.

Following the ceremony a two-course supper was served in this apartment, the fee assuming the molding of turtle doves.

At the appointed hour the Lohengrin wedding music was heard, Mr. George Doscher beautifully rendering "Because" just preceding, and the ribboned aisle was defined by Mrs. Max Taub and Mrs. Sam Taub.

Then came the little flower girls, Miss Mary Taub entering alone, followed by Misses Rosa and Lillian Sampson, all attired in daintiest of hand embroidered lingerie frocks, with white ribbons, and carrying baskets tied with tulle and filled with carnations.

The groom entered with his sister, Mrs. J. H. Sampson of California. Then came the maid of honor, Miss Risa Taub, and last the bride with her father, who gave her in marriage. A diamond brooch, a gift from her father, was worn, and she carried a chatelaine bouquet of valley lilies and brideroses, which, when thrown later, was caught by Miss Rosa Fox.

The going-away gown of the bride was a bronze cloth tailored suit worn with chiffon hand embroidered blouse. Mink furs were worn and a jaunty fur hat completed her toilette.

The array of wedding gifts was costly and magnificent. It included elegant home furnishings, a magnificent dining room set being among them, chests of silver, checks and everything that could tend to aid in making a home attractive and inviting. Even the home itself was numbered among the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Taub, the bride's parents, giving the young people a residence at 2716 Austin street.

The wedding gifts were shown in apartments upstairs, and were indeed tributes to the real worth of bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Raphael went to Chicago, Milwaukee and other points on their wedding journey and upon their return on January 15 will be at home temporarily at 702 Hamilton street, pending the occupancy of their own home. Numerous out-of-town guests were present at the ceremony and several dozen cablegrams were received, telegrams coming in scores.

AN ENJOYABLE CARD GAME.

A very enjoyable affair of the week was the high five party given by Miss Anna Nathan, complimentary to the young men friends of the Qui Vive Card Club.

Southern smilax was used to adorn the hall, parlor and dining-room and the same decorations were also entwined on the stairway. Tall ferns standing about lent added beauty to the home.

The tallies bore winter scenes done in water colors, mounted on green.
